ON YOUR OWN

- Based on what you now know about the DeepQA architecture, did anything surprise or impress you? Did anything strike you as particularly important or clever? Can you think of any other improvements or features you might to make for a system like this?